CONCORDIA UNIVERSITY

Simone de Beauvoir Institute

December 23, 1988

Dear Friends,

During the International Women's Week in 1989, the Institute wants to co-sponsor with other interested organizations a series of celebrations of black women and women of color. I have discussed this idea with Maitre E. Thornhill and she has suggested two possible events to start with:

- a) a performance by IN PROCESS, a community based cappella singing group composed of black women from the Washington Metropolitan Area. I have a folder with more information on their work.
- b) video series on Women of Color - from NFB and Women and Focus.

A celebration would be of interest to the public outside the University Community. With participation of IN PROCESS, a major public evening performance could be arranged. I have just written to the group, IN PROCESS and soon I hope to have more information on their availability.

I invite you to participate in the planning, in the suggestions, and in the co-sponsoring of events. The Institute is acting as an initiator and as a co-sponsor only of such celebrations. Later, all interested people could decide how to proceed. I suggest having an exploratory meeting in January at the Institute. The best time may be an evening or a weekend when most people are available. A tentative date: Thursday, January 19, 1989, 7 pm, at 2170 Bishop St. in the Lounge.

Join us in making this a wonderful celebration for the International Women's Week. Please write or call us as soon as you can. Our number is 848-2373.

Yours truly,

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE SIMONE DE BEAUVOIR INSTITUTE

FROM E. Henrik, Acting Principal, Simone de Beauvoir Institute

DATE January 17, 1989

!!FELLOWS!!

!!INSTRUCTORS!!

The dates of two co-curricular activities are rapidly approaching. Each of them is a special one and we need some collective ideas on how to make these events a successful and a memorable one for the guests and for the Institute's members.

The first event is a visit by faculty and students (graduate and undergraduate) from Trent University. The visit is part of an Ontario-Quebec exchange program. I am enclosing a letter from Christl Verduyn outlining their itinerary on February 14 (evening) and 15th (all day) and part of the 16th.

What do you suggest for them to do? Visit our classes and meet students/faculty there? CAN THEY VISIT YOUR CLASS? Please let me know. Should they have an outing on Tuesday evening or Wednesday, after all classes are over? Should we take them to a feminist play/event? Please let us have some feedback.

The second event is a luncheon seminar with Toril Moi, author of Sexual/Textual Politics, on March 8 from approximately noon to 1:30 at the Institute. I have already sent a note about this to you. The lunch for Toril Moi will be provided by the English Department with whom we are co-sponsoring the Moi visit. Lunch for the rest of us will have to be arranged by the Institute.

We need WOMAN POWER to set up these events and, most importantly, we need ideas for arranging things.

AND FINALLY

Do we want to apply for a Quebec-Ontario exchange program for the Institute people to visit Trent or other Universities? The deadline for application is the middle of February. If you are interested please call me.

PLEASE ANNOUNCE THE TRENT VISIT IN YOUR CLASSES!!!

Dear Elizabeth:

Laila will have passed on to you a tentative booking for Trent's (Women's Studies Program) visit to the Institut: the beginning of the week of February 13.

If this week would be possible from your point of view, we could leave Trent Tuesday Feb. 14 after teaching -- i.e. 12:30 p.m. We would likely arrive chez vous in time for dinner, which might be followed by an evening event. On Laila's suggestion, I have checked out the possibility of staying at the YWCA near the Institut. This seems like a possible and affordable arrangement. The Y would like an early confirmation of the dates when we would be staying there.

Wednesday the 15th could be spent at the Institut, with our group joining in regular or specially arranged activities. As I mentioned over the phone, we are planning to include Xia-Qing Li in our numbers. As Simone de Beauvoir Institut was interested in having her as a guest speaker, perhaps that could be worked in as part of the day's events. It would be nice to have some activity in the evening again. We would leave to return to Trent right after breakfast on Thursday the 16th.

When you have a chance (!), let us know if the above scenario might work.

Visitors will include:
Christl Verduyn
Michelle Lacombe
Xia Qing Li
Joelle Savreau
Eleanor Guney
+ 4 students

Sincerely,

Christl Verduyn
Chair
Women's Studies Program.
